Agricultural Entrepreneurship - 0192

Through this course, the student will gain knowledge in the development of a business enterprise. Financial and resource management is an important aspect of this course. Classroom experience may involve further study in the field, improvement of responsibility and career readiness skills.